MISSING SCENES FROM "24"

An important message from MAD's Director of Business & Development,

JEFFREY LOZENGE

In troubling times such as ours — and by “ours” I mean yours and mine, not someone else’s, which would be their troubling times, not ours — people — and by “people” I mean us, not those others who aren’t us but them — well, I’m sure you know what I’m getting at.

MAD — and by “MAD” I mean MAD — is a magazine whose time is and continues to be. It defines who we are and where we’ve been and where we are hoping to go if we can only find the money and get some time off. No reasonable person would argue with that.

And so it’s with that in mind — and by “that” I mean this, which is what I am about to say: I don’t wear a green suit with a question mark because I look attractive in it. I wear it because I must. A man must do what a man must do. And so must a woman. We are all one in nature’s garden.

Given all this, subscribing to MAD makes perfect sense. To you and me. Us.

TO TEACH HIS OWN

Thank you! Thank you! Thank you! I'm a Middle School English teacher in New York City and for the longest time I was unable to control my — ahem! — students. Now I have the best-behaved class of miscreants in the country! Why? Because of your magazine! A while back, I found a whole bunch of old MADs in a dumpster and I started reading them. I was, to say the least, appalled. Then I had a brainstorm! Why not threaten kids with having to read them if they didn't stop throwing paper airplanes, cursing, spitting and undulating all over the place? Now, when a behavioral situation arises, I just point to the MAD Corner and say, "You wanna read that crap at lunch time?" And voila — end of problem (though they have the shakes for the rest of the day!) Even other teachers are now starting to get hip to the idea and have begun subscribing to MAD. I can't afford to on my salary, but I have been scouring local dumpsters for more great reading material!

Sandy Grossman, Norwood, NJ

Gross and Beyond Grossman — We're sure you'll have lots of time to look for old MADs when the school board gets wind of what you're doing and you're fired from your job and have to live in a dumpster! —Ed.

STUDENT JONATHAN DANIELS IN THE "MAD CORNER"

WHEN THE SHOOT HITS THE MAN

While reading MAD #473 (The MAD 20 issue) I noticed something wrong on your number three event (The Cheney hunting accident). Dick Cheney is holding a rifle. I don't know about you, but I go bird hunting with a shotgun. On the cover he has a shotgun, but not on the article. And the dude he shot isn't wearing hunter orange — no wonder he got shot in the face!

Zach Kutkey, Vancouver, WA

Zach is Wack — You're right! No wonder he got shot! After all, without the orange hunting gear, an 80-year-old man is a dead ringer for a quail! By the way, are you wearing hunter orange right now?

If not, you're just begging to be shot right in the face! Thanks for writing and happy shooting! —Ed

FOLD CASE

I recently met an avid collector of your magazine. When I tried to fold the back page, he stopped me. Indeed, none of his many issues has ever been folded. "It's what true fans of the magazine do," he says. Since then, I stopped folding. I don't fold my napkin in my lap, when I go out to eat. I quit folding my laundry and prefer not to use folding chairs. Though I'm broke, I refuse to fold my business just because I couldn't fold my bad cards at the poker table. He's right, not folding is great! You guys are great!

Joe Griener, San Luis Obispo, CA

P.S. I'd like to thank my brother Mike for helping me get this letter in the envelope.

Mr. Mo Joe Rising — We decided to show your letter to Fold-in creator Al Jaffee and share your tale of super fandom. Boy, was that a mistake! Jaffee flew into a blind rage about how your lifestyle was an affront to everything he works for and believes in. Why has he spent a lifetime crafting Fold-ins if ingrates like you are going to deliberately ignore them? You've made a powerful enemy, Joe — and he's not so keen on that brother of yours, either! Thanks for writing — and watch your back! —Ed.

TV OR NOT TV

I am a huge fan of your magazine along with my cousin. I watch TV for almost seven hours straight when I get home from school. I think you should advertise on television. I know you have MAD TV, but just sleep on it!

Spencer Jones, Christiana, TN

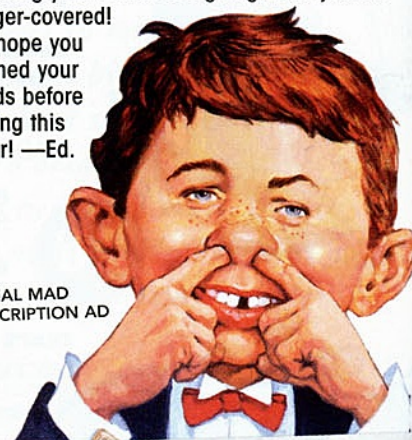

The Sixth Spence — No offense, but based on some of the life choices you've made, you don't seem like the type of person we should be taking advice from! Seven straight hours? Sweet buttered apricots — that can't be a good scene! And you want us to advertise on TV? We don't think you need more stuff to watch! We'll end things with this question: does this seven hours include bathroom breaks? On second thought, never mind. We're happier not knowing! —Ed.

ALFRED LOOK-A-LIKE

My brother Hank is always telling me that I look like Alfred E. Neuman. What do you think? I'd really like a free subscription to MAD Classics because Hank doesn't share his copies of MAD with me until they are all crumpled up and sneezed on.

Joe Shapiro, Ontario, Canada

Joey Joe — Your brother's issues are all sneezed on? That's disgusting! No wonder you want a separate subscription! However, judging from the pose in your photograph, we're guessing your issues are going to be just as booger-covered! We hope you washed your hands before writing this letter! —Ed.

Make A Dumb Wish Foundation™

I was watching an older episode of The Simpsons a few days ago and in the episode, Bart bought a MAD. Inside of his issue, there was an iron-on T-shirt print. For my wish for the Make A Dumb Wish Foundation™, I would really appreciate it if you guys included an iron-on print in your next issue.

Mike Torossian, Milford, MI

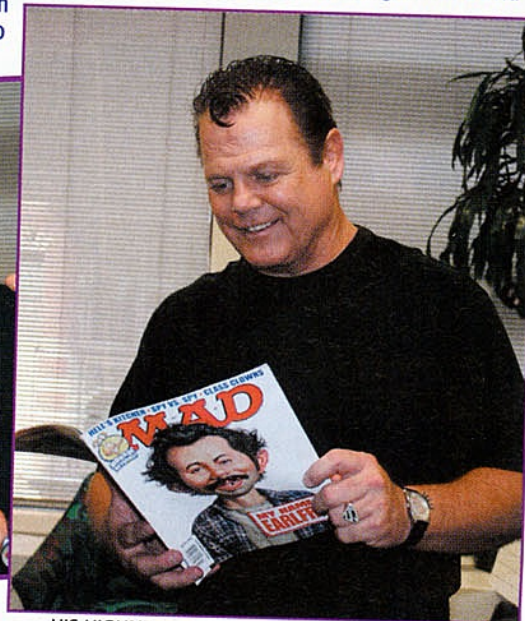

Mike Sharona — Good news! Every page of the issue you hold in your hands is an iron-on print! Just take any page, hold it against your chest and press a screaming hot iron against it for two to three minutes. Remember, if you see smoke and feel a searing pain, that means it's working! Thanks for writing the Make A Dumb Wish Foundation™. Enjoy your snazzy new wardrobe! —Ed.

A MAD CELEBRITY VISIT

Imagine our shock and surprise when WWE superstar and RAW commentator Jerry "The King" Lawler walked right into the MAD offices! The visit was going along nicely until MAD Senior Editor Jon Bresman mentioned that he preferred "Nature Boy" Ric Flair — at which point Lawler threw Bresman into a Spike Piledriver and beat him like he was Andy Kaufman on Late Night with David Letterman. Thanks to The King for stopping in — and feel free to send Get Well cards to Jon at this address!

DUMB'S THE WORD

I recently flew from Dallas to Seattle with a brand new December issue of your fine work. I was so excited to find your magazine at one of the newsstands before boarding. Upon completing the hilarious "Groin's Monotony," I realized that the 40-something woman next to me was working on a Sudoku puzzle and the older gentleman on the other side of me was basking in a hardcover book by Tom Clancy. I began to wonder if your delightful garbage could possibly stunt my mental growth. I am really concerned about this. Maybe you should put warning labels on your cover. Please advise.

Tommy Weeks, Dallas, TX

Weekling — We gave your letter to a professional educator and he said you write at a third grade level. So, you're definitely dumb, but it's unlikely MAD is responsible. We can tell you this much — reading your letter definitely made us a bit stupider. Maybe it's your writing that should come with a warning label. Thanks for writing! —Ed.

SCRABBLE BABBLE

I was reading the Fundalini Pages in MAD #472 when I stumbled on a big mistake. I usually don't expect a lot from your Gang of Idiots, but just when I was thinking you couldn't sink lower, you did. In "Other Things Hidden in the Prison Break Tattoo" you write: "List of official Scrabble 'Q-words' that can be spelled without the letter Q."

What's the second word? Qiviut! Isn't the fifth letter a "Q"??

Chris Pierre, Montreal, Canada

Ludachris — Sacre Bleu! You're absolutely correct! As our way of thanking you for pointing out this mistake, we'd like to respond for the rest of this letter without using the letter "U." Here goes: You stupid bumble-nut! What are you — one of the Parker Brothers? You should be beaten with a sack full of Scrabble tiles! —Ed.

P.S. Here's one you can put down for the next triple word score:

MEET THE '08 PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES

THIS MONTH: BARACK OBAMA

- If elected President, his secret service codename will be "Urkel"
- Neither boxers nor briefs, but rather a fusion undergarment of his own creation he calls "baraxers"
- Has had some "work" done on his ears
- Has already copyrighted his 2008 Presidential campaign slogan, "Once you go Barack, You'll never go back!" ©
- Is routinely referred to by his staff members as "B.O." (and not just because those are his initials, if you know what we're saying!)

I'd like to remind everyone that in the theatre, there are no small parts!

COVER WE DIDN'T USE

To the Citizens of Boston:

Let me start with what is most important – an apology. I deeply apologize to my corporate masters for signing off on an Aqua Teen Hunger Force promo campaign that would have merely been remembered as ill-conceived and ineffective had it not set off the most frenzied overreaction in New England since the Salem Witch Trials. Please don't fire me.

I'm sorry for the problem caused in your city by our unconventional marketing. In other American cities, where lots of smart people live, our wooden boxes with blinking lights that look like some kid's rejected science fair project were either ignored or seen for what they were: cheesy attempts at guerilla marketing. Forgive us for so severely overestimating your sophistication.

Still, the brunt of the responsibility lies with us. Why we greenlit an ad campaign that featured primitive images of a lesser character on our Aqua Teen Hunger Force program was a foolish mistake. It's like promoting The Sopranos by plastering the city with charcoal sketches of the guy who played the baker that sold the Shfooyadell to Christopher in Season One. Also, we may have erred in hiring a P.R. firm run by two potheads who make Bill and Ted look like Talmudic Scholars (though look for them in a new reality show on TBS next season).

In conclusion, we truly wish to regain your respect, or at least get you off our backs, so will two million bucks do the trick? Please say yes. I have to go now. Ted Turner himself just showed up in my office to kick my ass.

Sincerely,

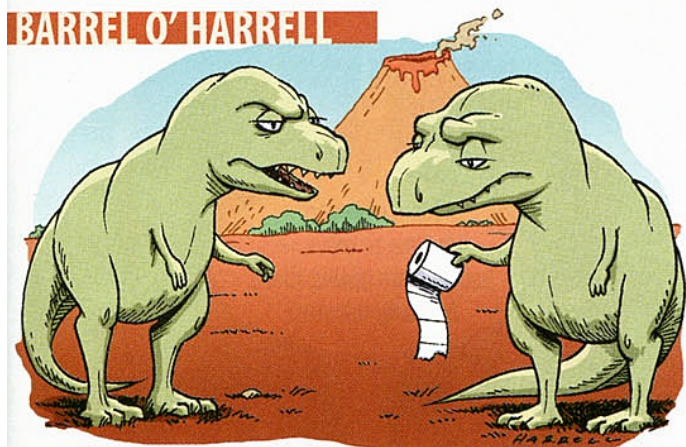

Phil Randall

THE FAST 5

Things the Democrats Accomplished in Their First 100 Hours

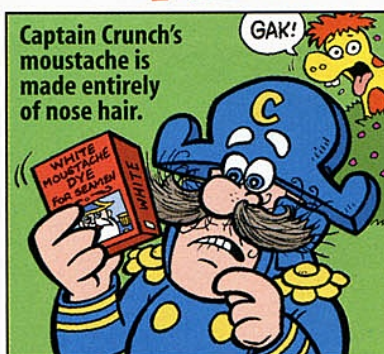

- 1 Impeached the Secretary of Agriculture, just as a warning.
- 2 Agreed on the Iraqi Compromise Amendment, whereby they'll complain about the war without actually doing anything constructive to end it.
- 3 Applied for an extension of another 100 hours so they can hold a few more victory parties.

4 Finally repealed that lousy Bill from Schoolhouse Rock.

- 5 Laid the groundwork for the scandal that will have them voted out of office in 2010.

I'm here because I love trophies — just look at my wife!

I'm Wince Cheese! In case you haven't seen this show it's basically Sex and the City for dudes! Only I'm prettier than Sarah Jessica Parker! This series is about four guys from Queens who hit it big in show business. Correction: actually ONE guy who hit it big and three guys who hopped on the gravy train with me! Our lifestyle is incredible. The biggest limos, the hottest women, the craziest parties...all that is kind of offset by the dulllest dialogue! See for yourself - follow our Hollywood journey in:

Wince Cheese here again. I sometimes wonder if my looks alone can carry this series. For sure my personality can't. Some critics have called me "low key," others have said "laid back," still others have toyed with the word "comatose." Hey, screw them. I'm hot! This show is all about me and my posse. They look out for me. They know what makes me tick. Last winter during the California mudslides, the guys ran out and put sand bags around my hair! But enough about me, meet my boys...

I'm Erk. The guys call me by my initial, "E." It's not out of affection. It's because these numbnuts can't remember a full name! I'm the brains of the operation. The smartest one of the four. That's like saying I'm the toughest guy on Queer Eye! I'm Wince's manager and his best friend! I've been making deals for him since we were kids! When we were nine we played Monopoly. I saw to it that he got the blue properties: Boardwalk and Park Place. Now he's got beachfront property at Malibu! Funny thing is, he keeps telling me about his plans to put tiny little green houses there. Hey, he's pretty, not smart!

Call me Albert Einstein because when it comes to show biz I'm a fu@#in' genius! I'm closing that deal with Warners with Wince as the new Robin Hood! Originally Warners passed on Wince, they were hot for Brad Pitt! But they did a 180, baby, after I made the deal interesting. I threw in my first born! Now, I know what you're thinking. How could I give up my first and only child? Hey, me and the old lady can always squeeze out another kid before her baby factory declares bankruptcy!

Acrid, you're an evil, despicable, smarmy A-hole!

Aw, baby, I haven't heard you talk like that since we exchanged vows! Right through the heart! If I had one! Now, let's hug it out, Bitch!

They say that the character of Acrid was modeled after two actual people!

You mean the tough, powerful entertainment agent, Ari Emanuel, and the legendary CAA deal maker, Mike Ovitz?

I mean the tyrant Joseph Stalin and the monster Adolph Hitler!

WOOD

Hey, Bro. I'm Dummer! For years I was scrounging around until three years ago when I found a great source of income. It's called my brother! Yeah, I'm Wince's less-successful half-brother. But I'm not just a hanger-on. I'm an actor. I've paid my dues! Of course, my rent, my food, my entertainment, my clothes – all that Wince pays for. But my dues? All me!

We've got a great group of guys here. Some people say Tortoise and I are the "Kramer" and "George Costanza" of this series. I was psyched! I thought it meant we were quirky and funny! Then I found out they meant, if we ever got our own series it would be cancelled after a few episodes!

I'm pumped, man! We're four shlumps from Queens who hit it big in Hollywood, but we haven't changed! We're still the same neighborhood guys we always were. Now, where the fu#%^ is my Blackberry?! I need to call the limo driver so that we can motor to Spago, pick up the caviar burgers from Wolfgang and then shoot over to Staples, sit with Jack at courtside and then party naked with some of the Laker girls! Now, where's my fu#$in' $800 blackberry!? Hey, good thing I own six extra!

Aren't these Hollywood jokes too inside for many viewers?

Well, yeah. There is a small portion of the audience that doesn't get this show.

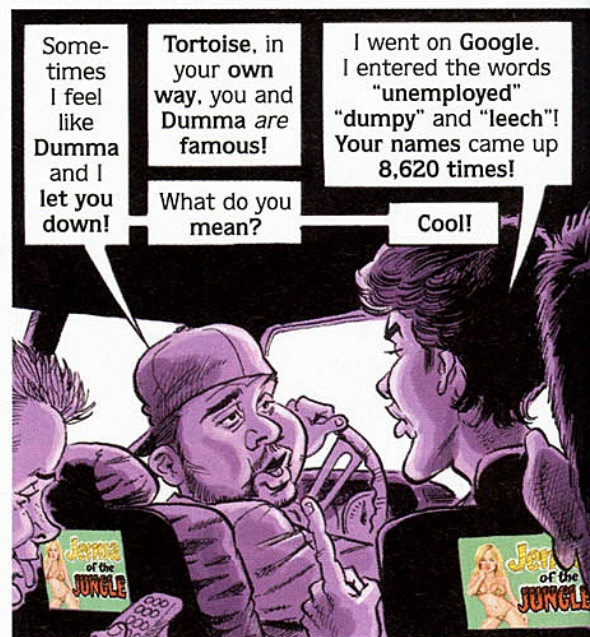

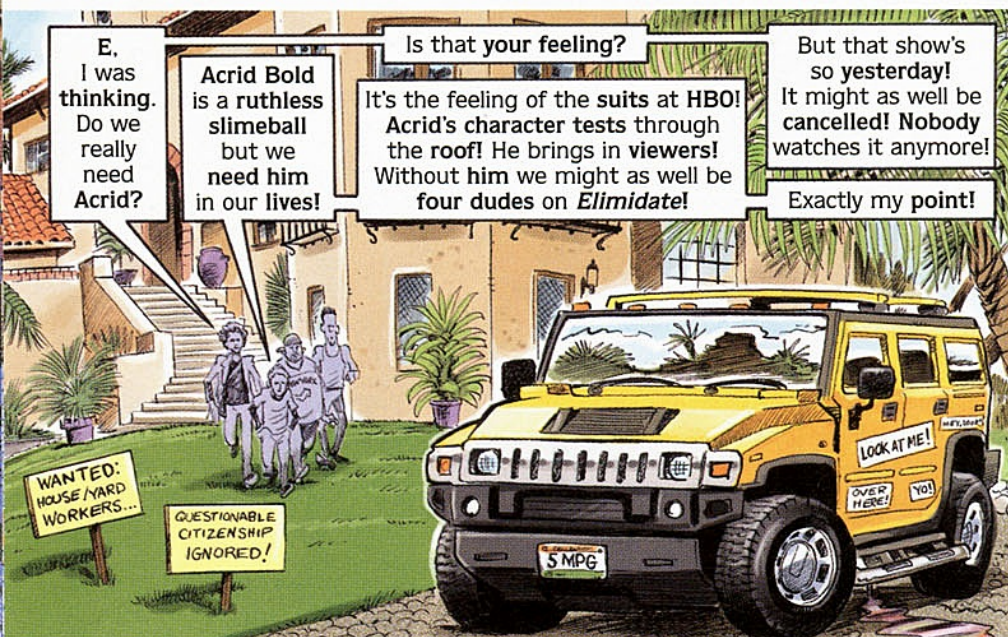

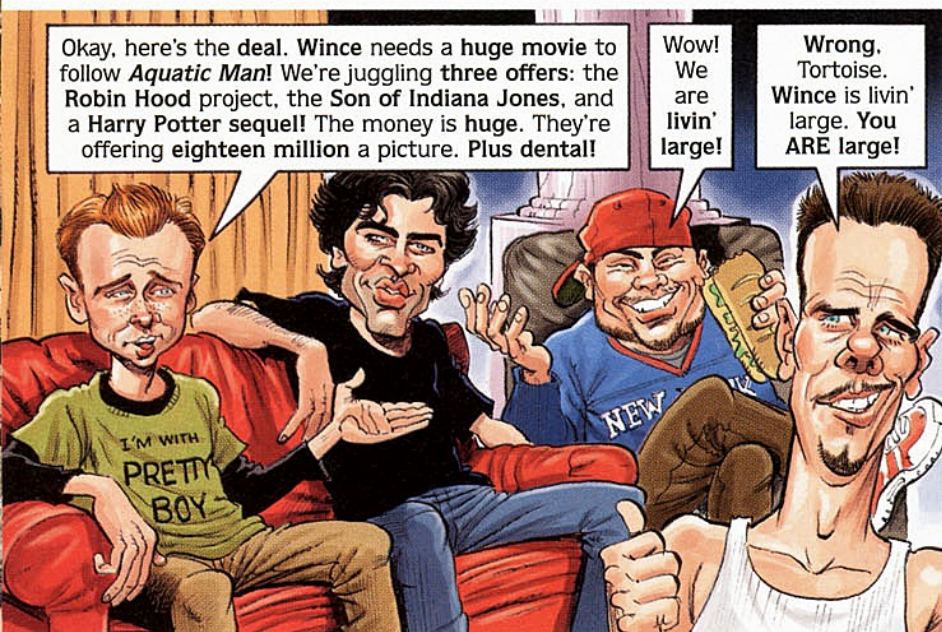

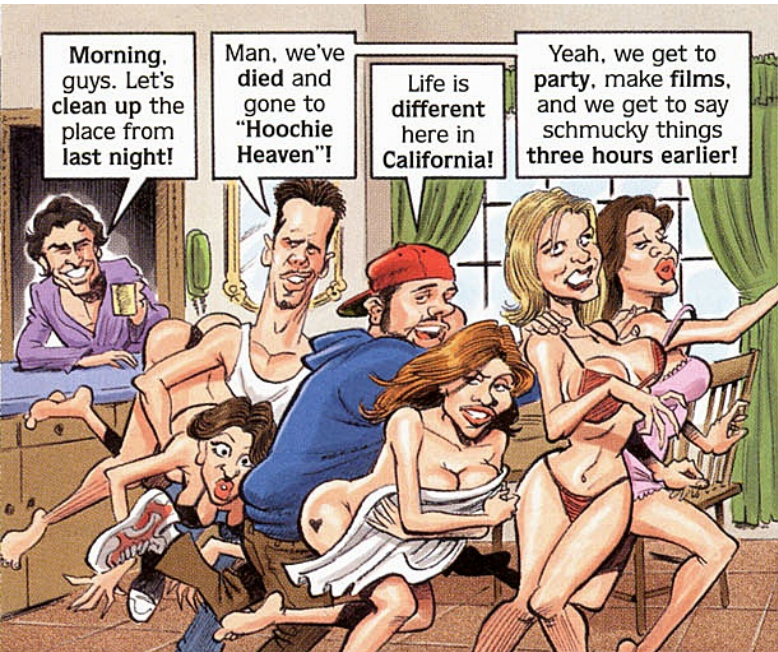

What portion is that?

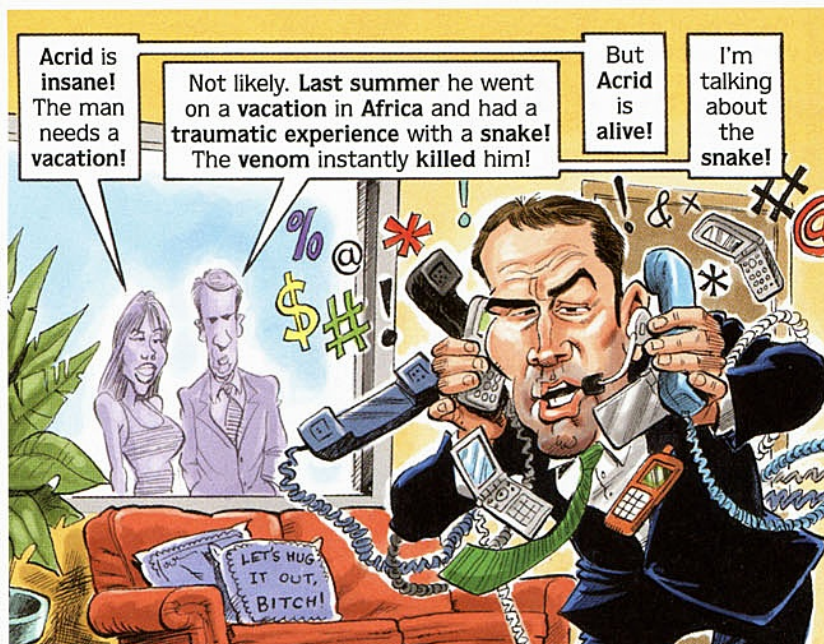

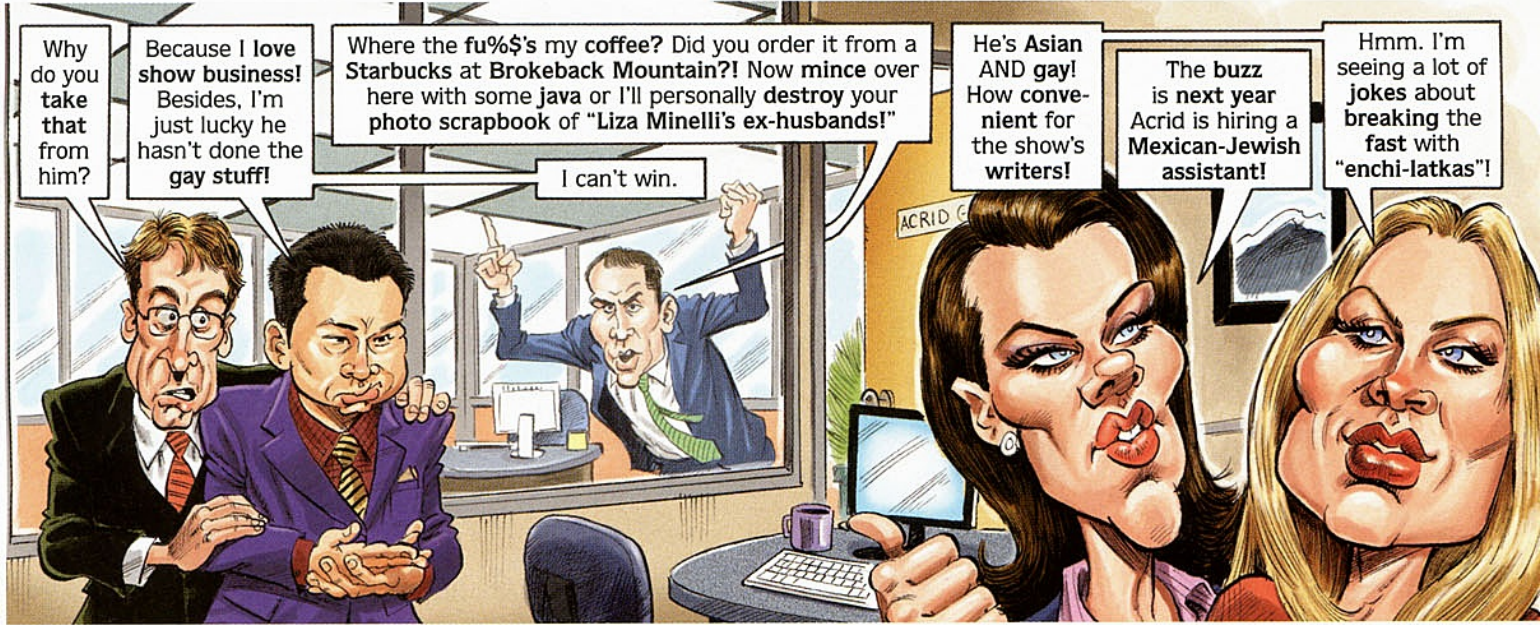

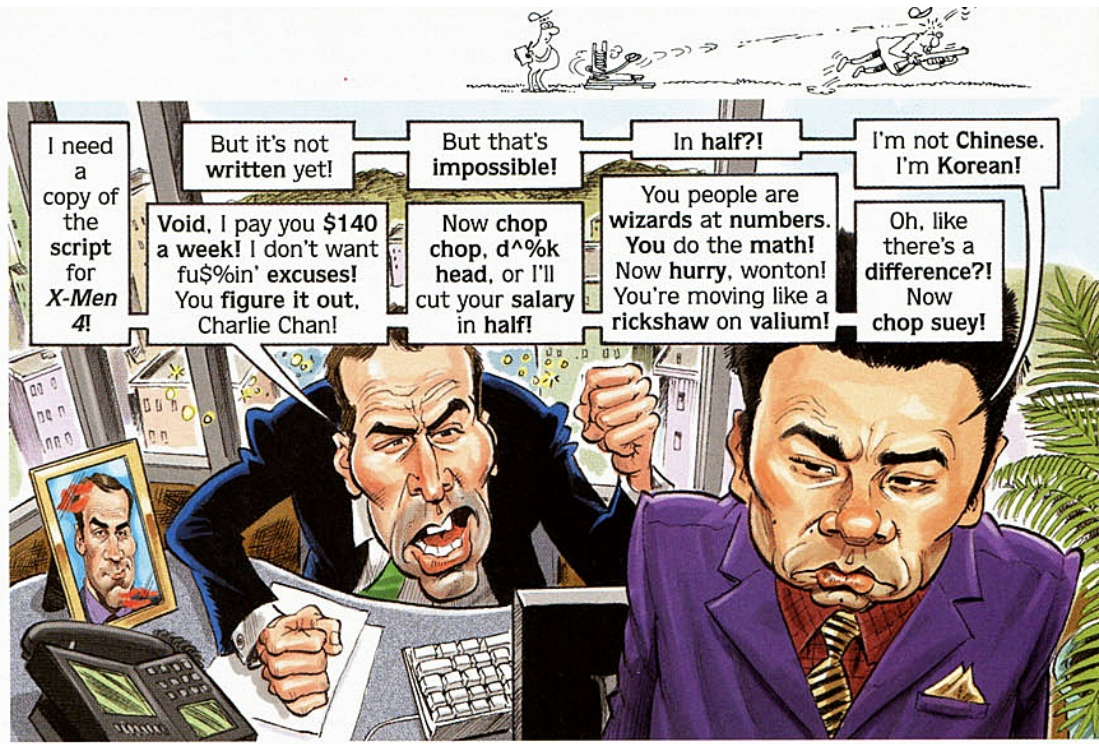

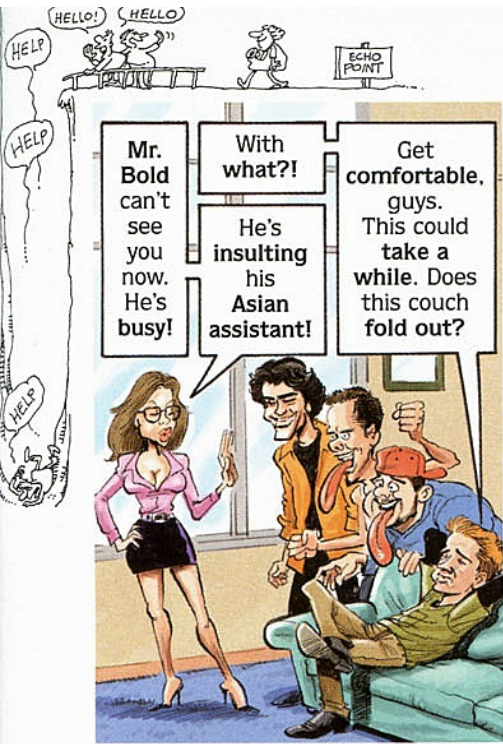

It's that tiny 2,800-mile section of the country located between New York City and Los Angeles!

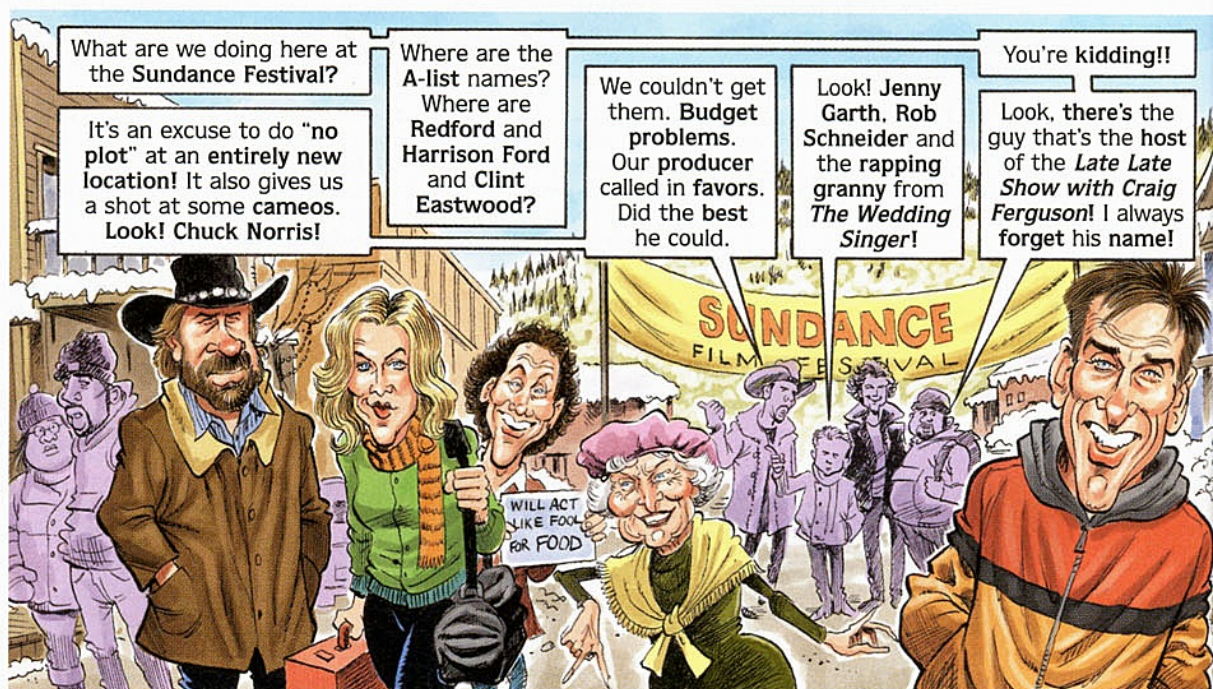

Wow, I thought I had mastered the art of living large while doing nothing in Hollywood, but these guys make me look like a workaholic!

And who are you?

Kevin Federline!

A MAD AD
PARODY

As recent events have reminded us, even the simplest of executions can be horribly botched when left to inexperienced killers. With the eyes of the whole world watching, there's no room for last minute foul-ups. Besides, why ruin an otherwise delightful afternoon? With careful planning and an upbeat, can-do attitude, even the fledgling Iraqi government will be administering the death penalty with undeniable savoir-faire after they've read these...

TIPS FOR A SUCCESSFUL

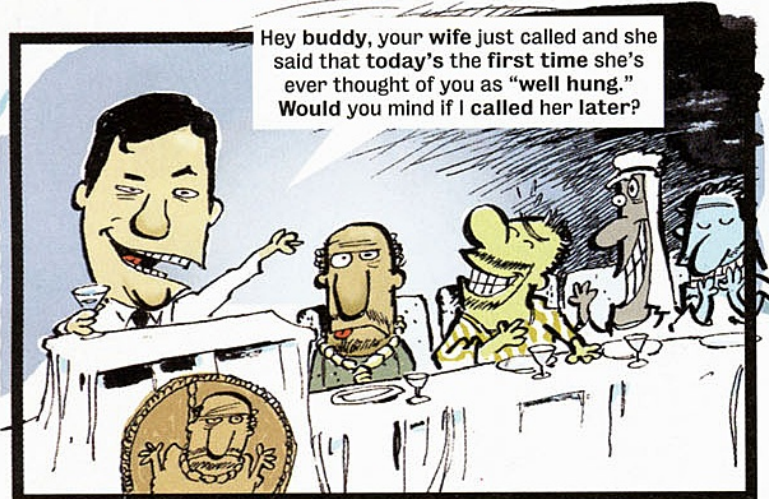

HANGING

Here you go — two seats right up front!

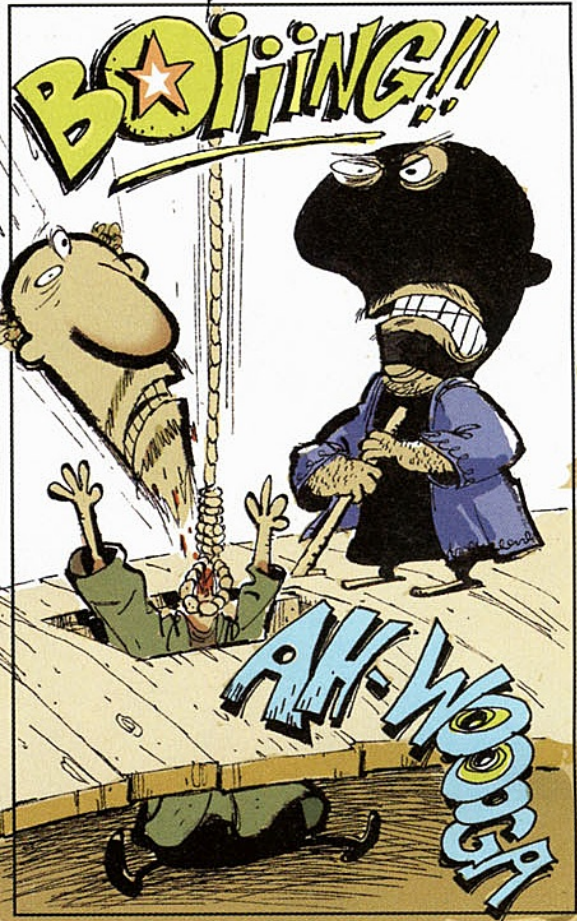

Thanks, the scalpers wanted 500 dinar for these!

As a goodwill gesture, be sure to provide family and friends of the hangee with comp tickets.

Hey buddy, your wife just called and she said that today's the first time she's ever thought of you as "well hung." Would you mind if I called her later?

It's unavoidable that spectators will want to insult and taunt the hangee. Provide them with a socially acceptable outlet: a Celebrity Roast.

Lighten the gravity of the situation by piping in America's Funniest Home Video-style sound effects during the most gruesome moments.

THE IRAQI HANGING HOUR IS BROUGHT TO YOU IN PART BY HOME DEPOT. YOU CAN DO IT. WE CAN HELP. McDONALD'S. I'M LOVING IT. MEN'S WEARHOUSE. YOU'RE GONNA LIKE THE WAY YOU LOOK AND NEW LINE CINEMA'S THE LAST MIMZY. OPENING EVERYWHERE MARCH 23!

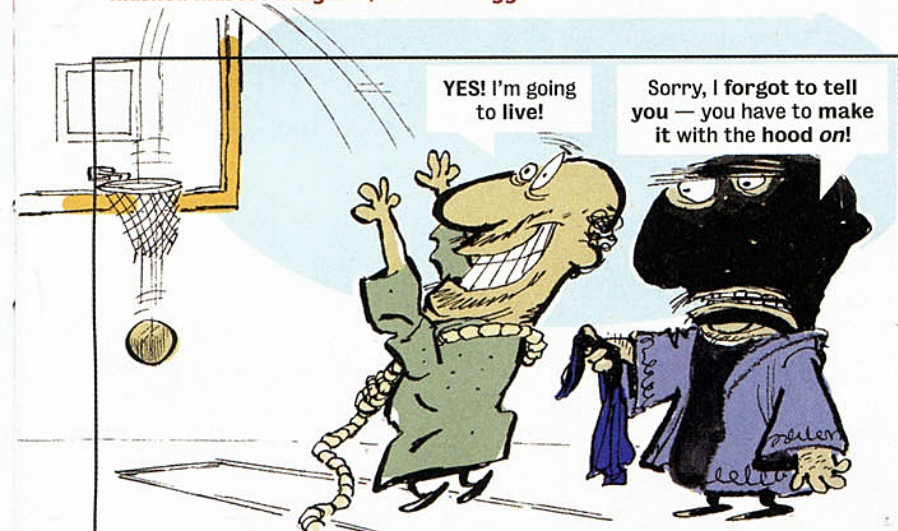

Plan for an execution that will not only cover costs but generate profits by lining up appropriate corporate sponsors.

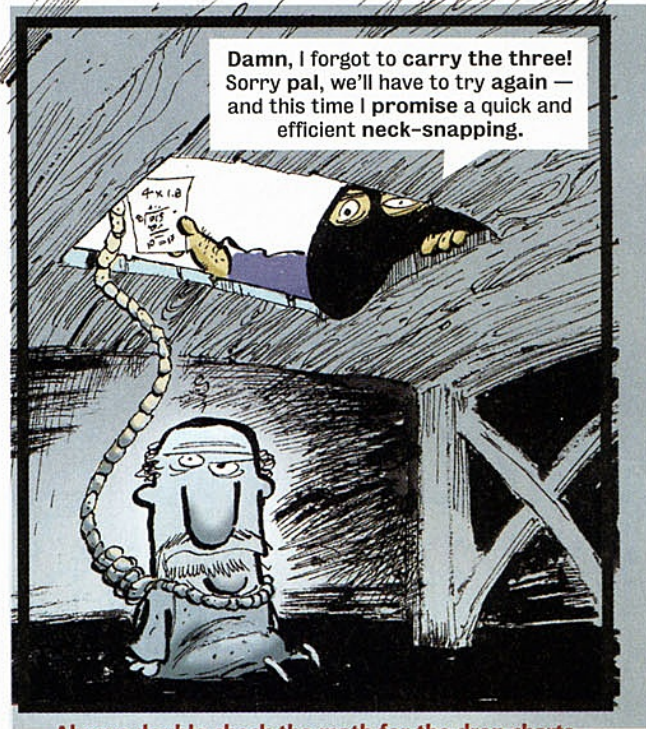

To lighten the mood, say good-bye to creepily hooded executioners, and say hello to colorfully masked mascot hangman, Charlie Chigger.

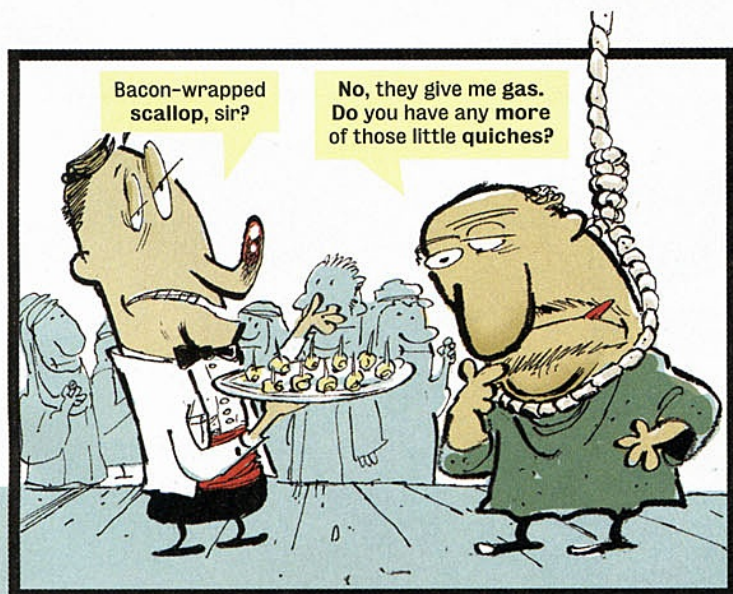

When administering multiple hangings, don't skimp on the nooses.

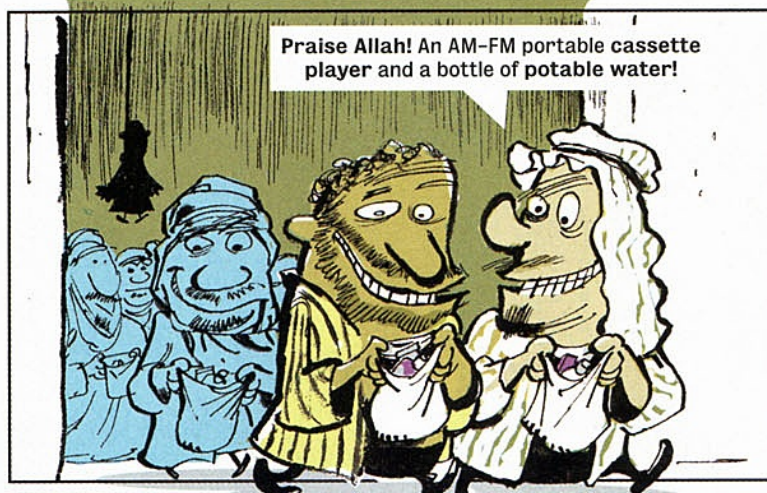

Offer clemency to any prisoner who can hit a shot from half court.

Always double check the math for the drop charts.

A well-fed hanging party is less likely to become unruly. Instead of a dank warehouse, spruce up everyone's spirits by opting for a classy reception hall.

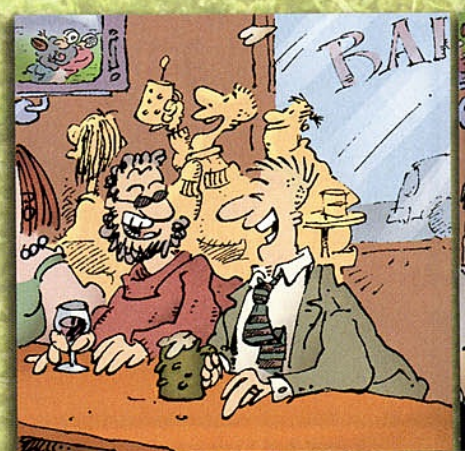

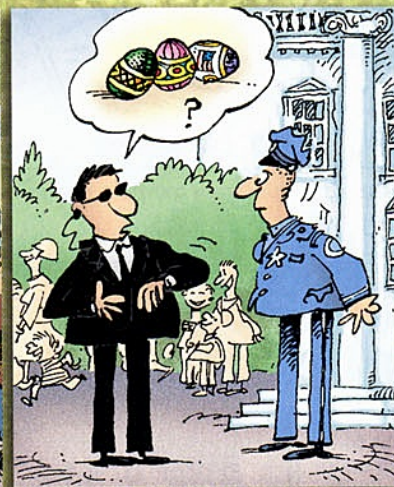

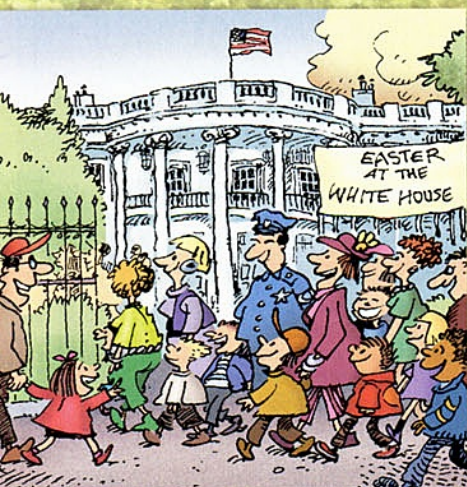

End the affair on a high note by taking a page from the Oscars and providing all attendees with an extravagant gift bag.

MAD's LESS-THAN-ACTION-PACKED OUTTAKES FROM 24

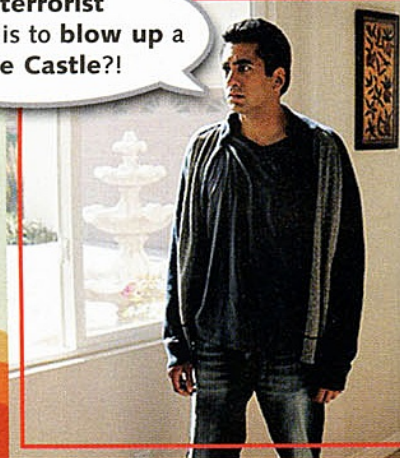

With my shirt buttoned all the way up, you'd think I was going undercover as a nerd!

Given what I know about upcoming 24 plot twists, put me down for a grand on Grey's Anatomy to win the Emmy!

My terrorist cell's plan is to blow up a White Castle?!

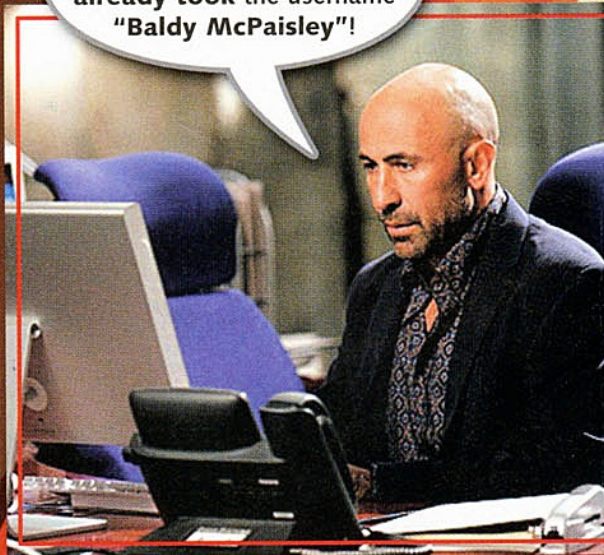

Would you like to explain why I'm not in your T-Mobile "Fave 5" anymore?!

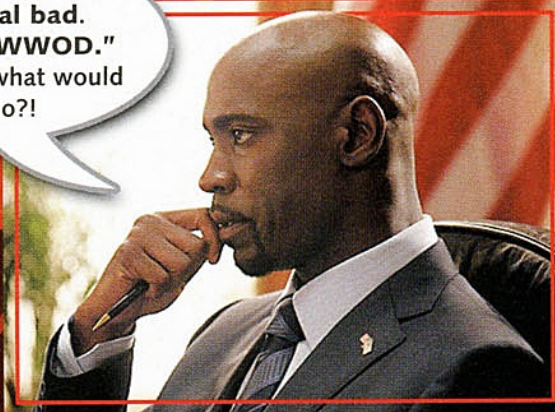

Uh...should we tell Jack that now that he's out of prison, he doesn't have to take a dump in a bucket anymore?!

I can't believe someone on MySpace already took the username "Baldy McPaisley"!

Okay, things are looking real bad. Just remember "WWOD." C'mon, think — what would Obama do?!

Well, I'm wearing my black v-neck blouse and matching headset...Wait, who IS this?

I need to update our security protocols, check in with our agents in the field, sync up with our satellite and...Oooh! A pop-up! Hit the target and win an iPod? Sweet!

What?! Me?! In episode four?! Are you sure it's ME they're killing off?...But I just bought a Hummer!

The new Jack Bauer is much more politically sensitive — for example, right now I'm looking for a hybrid car to steal!

Dammit Jack, don't you want to feel like you spent all that time in Asia for a reason? You will help us finish this Sudoku puzzle!

Yes, I realize it's urgent that I decode that message — but first let me show you this YouTube video of a girl crapping herself in a jacuzzi!

When I suggested that this season, viewers might like to see a "happy ending," that is not what I meant!

In April 1974, MAD published its most infamous cover — the so-called “Finger” cover. Rejected by many newsstand dealers across the country, the issue saw limited distribution, which resulted in horrible sales and one very depressed publisher.

With returns of this now rare and collectible issue pouring in, MAD’s founder and publisher, William M. Gaines, sent several boxes of the issue to the MAD vault, where they remained, undisturbed and forgotten, until last year when the vault was emptied.

Now, here is your chance to own your very own copy of this legendary issue. Subscribe to MAD Classics and get an original copy of MAD #166 absolutely free!

You’ll also get a Certificate of Authenticity signed by MAD editor John Ficarra. (Probably not worth much, but it might give you an edge when you try to resell this on eBay a few months from now!)

Demand is expected to be high and the number of issues is limited, so it’s important that you act now to insure that we’re able to give you the finger!

They've been locked in a bitter war of words for months. It's been hurtful, it's been ugly. But why? That is the question we keep coming back to. Why can't two of America's most "beloved" celebrities just get along? Are they that diametrically opposite that they can't help but despise the other? Or is it their similarity that fuels their hatred? We report, you decide with this invaluable reference chart...

Robots are slowly taking over the jobs that humans used to do — from building cars to hosting TRL (unless we're wrong about Vanessa Minnillo...). And it's only a matter of time before these freakin' androids are working in our homes, too! And then what happens? Uh...actually, we're not sure... Man, we could really use a robot to finish this stupid intro for us! While we go back to the lab, why don't you read...

There's certain music trivia that everyone knows – the Beatles had a lot of number one singles, Jay-Z just came out of retirement and Michael Jackson is a huge, ever-expanding train wreck! There are, however, some facts that aren't common knowledge – which is why MAD is happy to present these...

1 No one has ever had the #1 single in Antarctica.

2 Atlantic Records has developed an advanced electronic security tag that prevents heterosexual men from accidentally walking out of a store with a James Blunt CD.

3 Half of all the world's champagne is currently being spilled in hip hop videos.

4 Detailed scientific study of the oscillating sonic particles within Coldplay's last two albums has led to speculation that the 23 songs may actually be different.

5 Hilary Duff has never been bulimic. She just throws up a lot because of her constant exposure to Hilary Duff music.

6 Sharp-eyed observers have learned to tell Kenny Chesney, Toby Keith, Trace Adkins, Tim McGraw, Alan Jackson, Chris Young and Brad Paisley apart by comparing the tiny differences of detail in their hats.

MUSIC FACTOIDS

7 Because of shady accounting practices and bad investments, there's a very good chance that Chamillionaire will end up as Chaminimumwageworker.

8 Over the course of his career, Bob Dylan has filled his harmonicas with 674 gallons of spit.

9 According to the rules, Kid Rock beats Scissor Sisters.

10 Fewer than 2% of online music pirates have hooks and eyepatches.

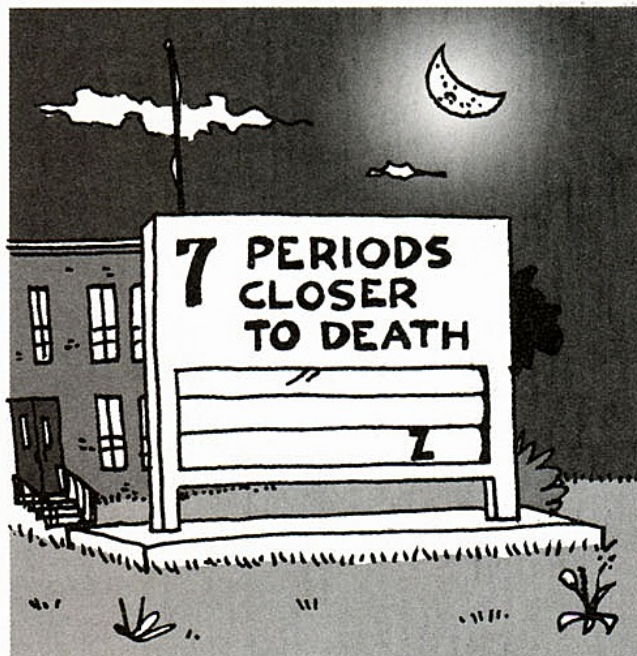

11 Think of a number. Now double it. Now double that. Now add 5, and double it again. That's how much the souvenir concert T-shirt you want costs.

12 Because his lazy eye always rolls to magnetic north, Radiohead lead singer Thom Yorke can never be lost.

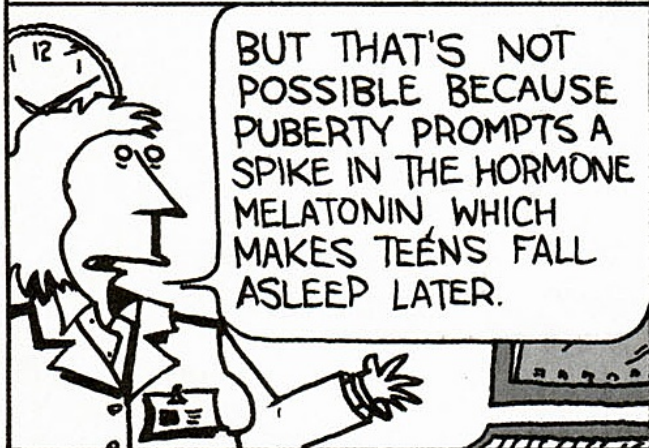

13 It's a common misconception that the KISS makeup stops at the neck.

PARODY

Twelve teams travel around the world in just 30 days! It's a frantic race to win $1 million! At first it was exciting to see the teams dashing through exotic foreign locations, bickering couples squirming as they had to eat weird alien delicacies. But now we're up to the 11th go-round of this series and it's getting pretty boring watching the same tired routines over and over. Quite frankly, this once thrilling show has become...

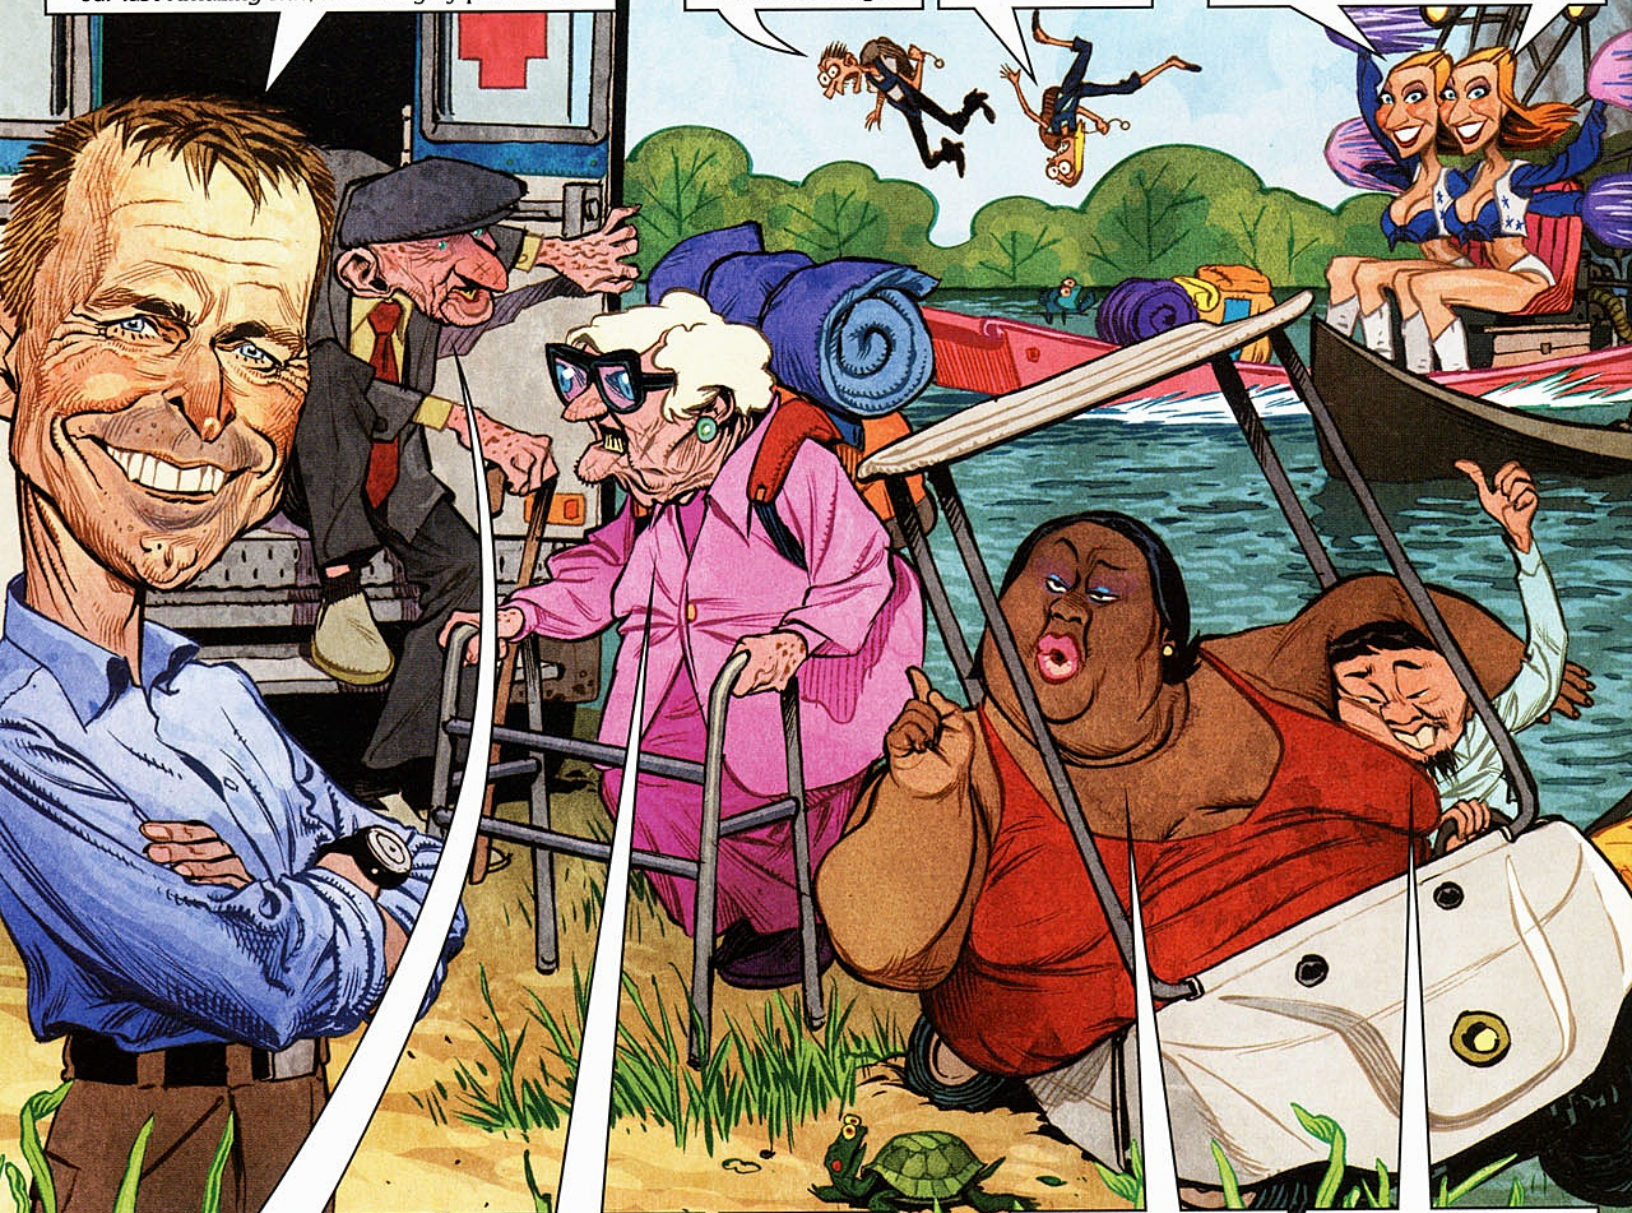

I'm Pill KingHam! You're watching twelve teams from all around the world converge on this desolate spot in the Florida Everglades! Actually, all twelve of these teams are staying in a run-down motel just a mile from here provided by the producers. They could have all come in a mini-bus, but isn't it so much more impressive to say they've come from places far and wide? Some are arriving today by airboat, some are arriving by helicopter.

And one returning team, the two successful male models who won the $1 million dollars in our last Amazing Rut, is arriving by parachute!

My God, the packs the producers gave us don't have parachutes in them! No wonder they said we'd get our $1 million prize after we appeared in this new series! It was their crappy way of not paying us our winnings!

Stop being so gloomy! Look on the bright side – it's great that our faces are back on national TV again. This should make quite a big impact on our modeling careers!

We're Tiffany and Tiffany! We're identical twins! We're so identical we have the same first name! We're cheerleaders – which is odd, because the town we come from is so small it doesn't have any sports teams! But the producers said we could be on the show anyway, as long as we wore these short skirts and tight sweaters! Rah! Rah! – uh, what's the third word? Oh yeah, Rah!

To try to give this season's series a different look, they've added us! We're the oldest couple ever to appear on The Amazing Rut! The producers told me that having us on the show was a way to show America that being a senior doesn't have to mean you're really over the hill!

Bullsh*t, you old fool! They wanted us on the show because watching old people fall down on camera is really good for a laugh!

Where's a giraffe?

Oh, yeah – I'm sure they also considered the fact that one of us is hard of hearing as comedy gold!

We're the politically correct interracial couple! I'm big and overweight, and my Asian boyfriend here is thin and anemic! You probably think we make a strange combination and you're right!

When we tried to get on the show with our real partners, we were turned down! Then we got this wild idea to walk back into the producer's office pretending to be this weird couple and bingo, we're on the show!

AMAZING!

WRITER: DICK DEBARTOLO

ARTIST: HERMANN MEJIA

We've been best friends since childhood! I'm the youngest and he's the dumbest!

I'm the dumbest? You were the one who asked if our canoe came with a steering wheel, moron!

Screw you, a-hole!

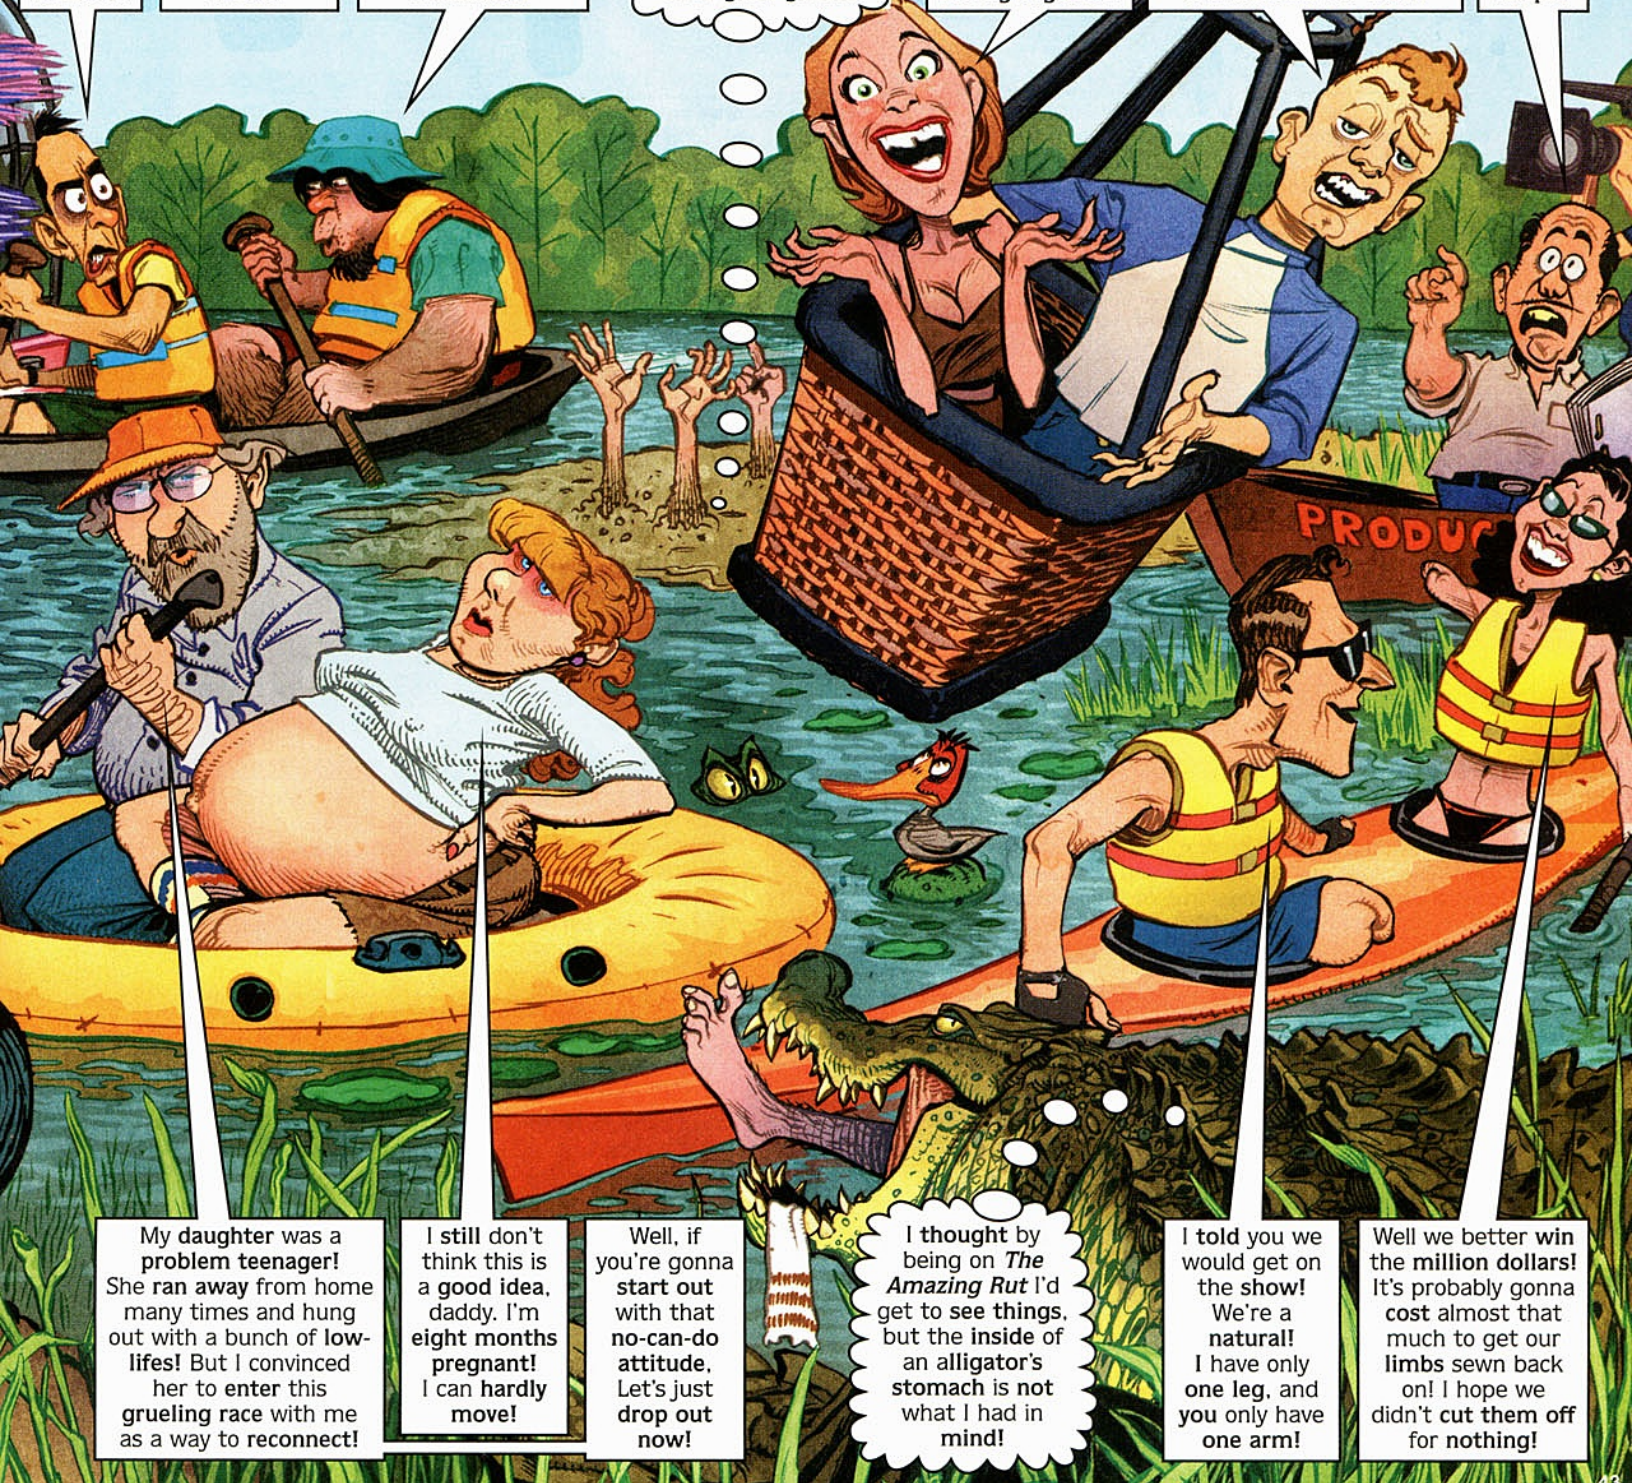

Bite me, Jerkwad! Well, I guess it's easy to see why we got picked for this show. Our ability to constantly bicker and put each other down is high on the producer's list of "must have" attributes!

We're supposed to be couple number five! They told us there would be some real surprises in this version of the show, but who figured we'd be eliminated even before they announced our names! Glub, glub, glub...

Biff and I have been, like, dating for a couple of weeks now and, like, we thought joining The Amazing Rut would be a good way to find out if we, like, belong together!

Sure, we could go out on more dates and I could see how she behaves at a restaurant or ball game, but being in Rut lets us find out the deeper things! Like how she reacts to falling into a heap of elephant dung or if she minds a snake crawling up her skirt while a spider crawls down her neck!

Hey, how did this guy get an advance copy of this season's script?

My daughter was a problem teenager! She ran away from home many times and hung out with a bunch of low-lives! But I convinced her to enter this grueling race with me as a way to reconnect!

I still don't think this is a good idea, daddy. I'm eight months pregnant! I can hardly move!

Well, if you're gonna start out with that no-can-do attitude, Let's just drop out now!

I thought by being on The Amazing Rut I'd get to see things, but the inside of an alligator's stomach is not what I had in mind!

I told you we would get on the show! We're a natural! I have only one leg, and you only have one arm!

Well we better win the million dollars! It's probably gonna cost almost that much to get our limbs sewn back on! I hope we didn't cut them off for nothing!

Sorry we're late, Pill! We almost didn't make it at all! We're construction workers and yesterday my buddy fell into a wet cement foundation and I had to dive in and help him get out!

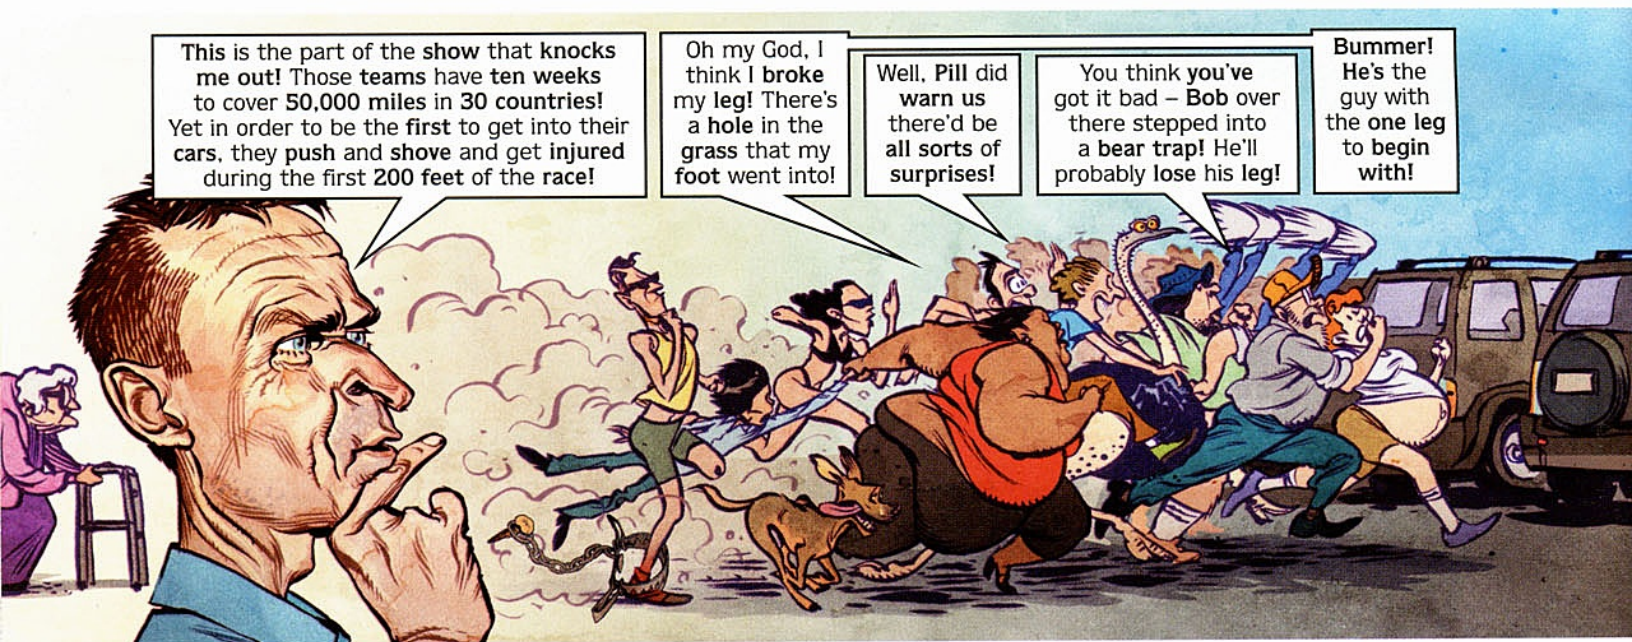

That kind of stamina is what you'll need for this race! ...You know, something's wrong here. We're supposed to have a gay couple!

We are a gay couple!

You two guys are gay? Then you're out of the race!

You can't throw us out of the race just because we're gay!

I'm not throwing you out of the race because you're gay! I'm throwing you out of the race because you're not flamboyant gays! What good is having gays on the program unless they're stereotypes that reinforce everyone's prejudices?

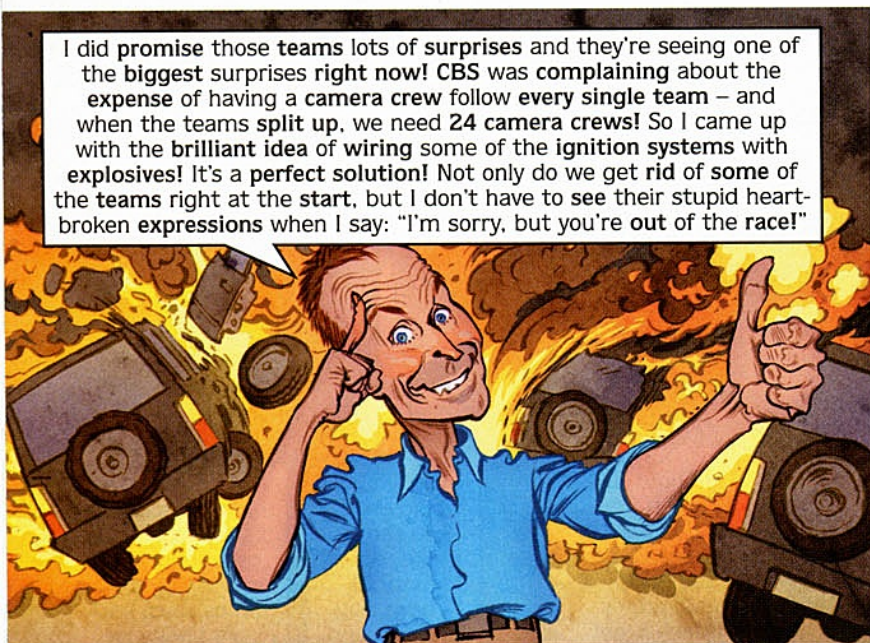

This is the part of the show that knocks me out! Those teams have ten weeks to cover 50,000 miles in 30 countries! Yet in order to be the first to get into their cars, they push and shove and get injured during the first 200 feet of the race!

Oh my God, I think I broke my leg! There's a hole in the grass that my foot went into!

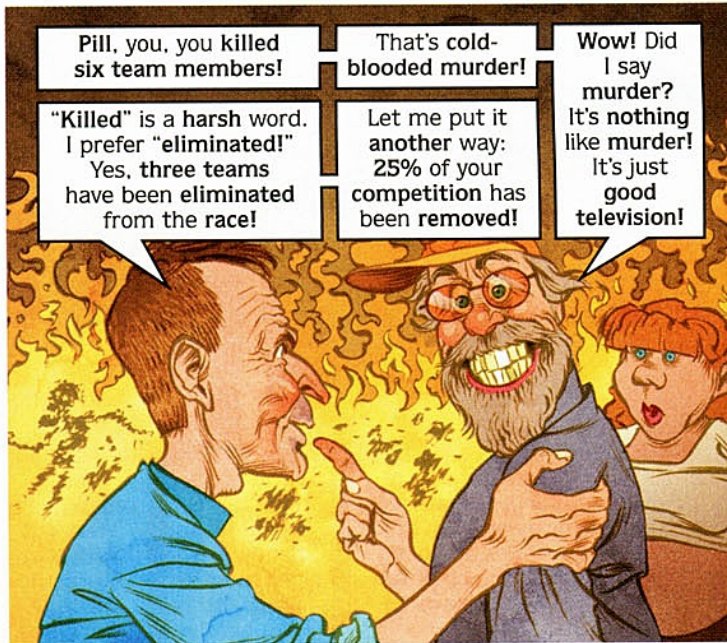

Well, Pill did warn us there'd be all sorts of surprises!

You think you've got it bad - Bob over there stepped into a bear trap! He'll probably lose his leg!

Bummer! He's the guy with the one leg to begin with!

I did promise those teams lots of surprises and they're seeing one of the biggest surprises right now! CBS was complaining about the expense of having a camera crew follow every single team - and when the teams split up, we need 24 camera crews! So I came up with the brilliant idea of wiring some of the ignition systems with explosives! It's a perfect solution! Not only do we get rid of some of the teams right at the start, but I don't have to see their stupid heart-broken expressions when I say: "I'm sorry, but you're out of the race!"

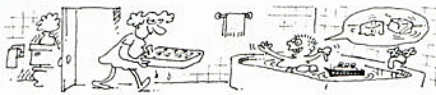

Pill, you, you killed six team members!

That's cold-blooded murder!

Wow! Did I say murder? It's nothing like murder! It's just good television!

"Killed" is a harsh word. I prefer "eliminated!" Yes, three teams have been eliminated from the race!

Let me put it another way: 25% of your competition has been removed!

The teams are off on the first leg of their long, difficult journey! They must now fly from Florida to Cairo, Egypt!

Oh, no! They must be doing yet another season of that Amazing Rut show! Here come more of those obnoxious couples running from window to window trying to buy tickets at the last minute!

Screw security! I'll turn off the metal detector and just let them pass through! Let the other countries deal with them. Can the image of ugly Americans get any worse?

SPECIAL SECURITY ENTRANCE FOR CONTESTANTS FROM THE AMAZING RUT

Here in Cairo the teams must find their first clue, which we've hidden among the treasures of Tutankhamen! We're down to six teams after bribing customs to arrest three teams and keep them in jail till the race is over!

Do you think the Egyptians ever had big yellow envelopes that said Amazing Rut on them?

I'm not a historian, but I would think not!

Then we have our next clue!!

Best Glue? I'd say Elmer's! Fixed my dentures with them once!

The teams have made their way to South America! Now they must cross the Amazon River, but they have a choice! They can choose to swim it, or if they want to spend the time, they can build a boat to cross it!

This water is amazing! I feel like I'm getting lighter by the minute as I swim! I guess it's the undertow!

You are getting lighter by the minute, and it's not the undertow! It's piranhas! They're pulling off our flesh!

We're now in last place! There go our hopes and dreams!

You mean our hopes and our limbs!

I'm glad we decided to build a boat! We couldn't afford to lose any more limbs!

DON'T MAKE US DRAFT YOU!

Everyone knows the all-volunteer armed forces isn't adequate, so why not join now, so you can at least pretend that it was your decision!

WAR FOR NOW.

DEATH FOR LATER.
